Hi, all—

As you continue to work on your revised syllabus, please note that the Writing Center will be available for online appointments starting the week after Spring Break. Students will need to make an appointment by clicking “Writing Center” under Student Services in the portal. The hours will vary from day-to-day, depending on tutor availability. I anticipate relatively low demand, but if our initial offerings prove to be insufficient, we will be able to offer more hours. Because our tutors will be working remotely, it will be difficult for me to troubleshoot problems in real-time, so please tell students to pay careful attention to the instructions on logging into their appointments. Finally, for students with slow or intermittent internet connections, we will offer asynchronous tutoring. For these students, have them email writingcenter@canisius.edu. Please don’t advertise this particular route widely; instead, offer it to students individually as you learn more about their situations.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Graham

Graham Stowe, PhD
Assistant Professor of English
Writing Center Director
Director of First-Year English
Canisius College
716-888-2663
stoweg@canisius.edu
Pronouns: he/him/his