Are you ready for online learning?

Online learning requires self-discipline and time management. Unlike face-to-face (F2F) classes, there aren't "brick-and-mortar" class meetings that set a pace for students. And obviously, students need a bit more familiarity with web-based technology, too. This self-assessment will help you in several ways:

- determine whether online learning may be a right fit for you
- better understand what is expected of you as an online learner
- take steps to prepare yourself so you may complete and benefit from an online course.

Begin the self-assessment by clicking below:

Online Learning Self-Assessment

Note: The assessment will open up in a new tab or window. Once you've completed the assessment, close it and return to this window.

Next Step: Resources for Learning Online