COVID-19 Academic Resources

This guidance comes from the continued work of the Academic Continuity Group, the Center for Online Learning and Innovation (COLI), the Education Policy Committee, and the Faculty-Student Liaison Committee as well as the Recovery Task Force.

This is a procedural supplement to the Multi-Modal Teaching & Learning COLI Resources which provides the primary guidance for your Course Development Planning during COVID-19

To ensure clear communication with your students, please use the following D2L features:

- Due dates
- Gradebook
- COLI's Self-Paced Training for D2L Tools/Features

Additional Important Resources:

- Additional Important Guidelines and Information for Classes during COVID-19
- Attendance Guidance
- Course Orientation Guidance
- Office Hour Guidance
- Online Notification Form Process

For additional support:

- COLI consultations can be booked for individuals or departments at https://wiki.canisius.edu/display/FacTS/COLI+Consultations.
- Check the Faculty Development Calendar regularly to see workshops and forums to help support you throughout the semester.
- Appointments with Jenn Lodi-Smith, assistant vice president for academic affairs, can be booked using at https://calendly.com/lodismij/meetings or by emailing lodismij@canisius.edu.
- After reviewing the linked guidance, please click here to submit your questions if you have additional information you would like to see addressed.
